

Are you or a loved one living with a serious illness? Palliative care can help.

Palliative care helps you live well while living with a serious illness.

Palliative care is specialized medical care for people living with a serious illness, like cancer or heart failure. It provides relief from the symptoms and stress of a serious illness to improve quality of life for patients and the people who matter to them.

Palliative care is provided by a specially-trained team of doctors, nurses, social workers, chaplains, and other specialists who work with your other doctors to provide an extra layer of support. You can get palliative care at any age and at any stage of a serious illness—even while you get treatment.
